

The Plight of the Palestinians

A Long History of Destruction

Edited by William A. Cook

This book is a collection of voices from around the world that establishes in both theoretical and graphic terms the slow, methodical genocide taking place in Palestine beginning in the 1940s, as revealed in the introduction. From Dr. Francis A. Boyle's detailed legal case against the state of Israel, to Uri Avnery's "Slow Motion Ethnic Cleansing," Richard Falk's "Slouching toward a Palestinian Holocaust," and Ilan Pappé's "Genocide in Gaza," these voices decry in startling, vivid, and forceful language the calculated atrocities taking place, the inhumane conditions inflicted on the people, and the silence that exists despite the crimes--nothing short of state-sponsored genocide against the Palestinians.
